Talk Title: Water in Every Garden

Brief Description: This presentation is aimed at everyone. When we think of water gardening or pond keeping, we tend to envisage large bodies of water, spacious backyards, exclusive landscaping, and extravagant gardens.

However, having water in the garden need not be all about large open spaces and big money. Some of the loveliest and most tranquil settings are no bigger than a ceramic pot on a patio.

Whether you have a garden or not; there are many options available for enjoying the soothing sounds of water.

Brief Biography Isa emigrated from Australia to Canada in 1996. She worked for 10 years in postgraduate studies at Southern Cross University. Many postgraduate research projects were based in environmental science, and that is how she learned about aquatic ecosystems and pond ecology.

The Bloomin Bog Water Gardens was founded in 1981, and Isa has been a partner since January, 1996. She and her husband, Nick, own and operate the business, employing nine full-time seasonal staff every year. The business occupies almost one acre of land that's devoted to greenhouses, goldfish and koi, and the propagation of aquatic plants. The showroom boasts a large selection of pond and water feature hardware for all DIY enthusiasts.
